SRDS Local Market Audience Analyst - Local Market Audience Analyst is an SRDS (Standard Rates and Data Services) market research tool that tracks consumer behavior. Using the 210 United States Designated Market Areas (DMAs), it gives a demographic and psychosocial snapshot of consumer behavior. This resource provides an understanding of the activities, behaviors, and lifestyles in which a specific geographic population engages. It allows the user to see whether their product or service will be acceptable in a specific market, based on current consumer activities. Such target marketing is especially useful for entrepreneurial feasibility studies.

ToxEd - ToxEd delivers point-of-care information in toxicology, from clinical presentation to management of patient cases of drug, plant, mushroom or other toxic substance exposure and overdose. It interfaces with the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) website and, for drug and toxicology-related articles, the Scopus abstracts database.

Ulrichsweb - Ulrichsweb, the enhanced online version of Ulrich's Periodicals Directory, is a bibliographic database that provides detailed, comprehensive, and authoritative information on serials (notably, journals, magazines, and newspapers) published throughout the world. Covering all subjects, it includes publications that appear regularly or irregularly, whether circulated free of charge or sold. Reviews are present from Magazines for Libraries and Library Journal. Updates are weekly.

UNdata - UNdata, the new data access system for United Nations statistical databases, has replaced the United Nations Common Database.
