- 90% of all freshmen students live on campus
- 19 Division III sports
- Over 50 student clubs and organizations
You’ve probably heard people talk about the value of a liberal arts education, but what does that really mean to you? At its best, a liberal arts education prepares you for a life worth living — and gives you the knowledge and insight to help make the world a better place in which to live.

That may sound like a lofty goal, but trust us — it’s in great demand among employers. A liberal arts education teaches you how to examine an idea and judge its truth and worth. You learn how to defend your beliefs and communicate them with passion. You learn how to interact and empathize with people whose ideas aren’t identical to your own. You will think “outside the box” to creatively solve a problem.

Simply stated, that is our educational promise to you at the College at Florham, whether you’re majoring in finance or film, education or economics. A foundation in the liberal arts will prepare you for a lifetime of personal and professional growth because you don’t simply “learn a skill” — you “learn how to learn.”

We deliver on that promise by providing you with outstanding teachers, exceptional personal attention and support, and unforgettable learning experiences. That is the difference you’ll find at the College at Florham.
Encouraging Learning All Around You

Because the College at Florham focuses on the undergraduate experience, there are countless opportunities for students to explore their majors and grow professionally. A corporate mentor program links top students with area executives to network and learn about an industry. Students can earn up to 12 credits (depending on their major) doing student-faculty research in majors ranging from biology to political science. A special fund has been created at the College at Florham to support off-campus learning experiences. Students have been funded to attend a student conference on peace at Brandeis University; a meeting of the New York Association of Analytical Psychologists and a field trip to the International Center of Photography, to name just a few.

Honors Programs at the College at Florham

Because of our liberal arts education focus, it’s no surprise that honors programs are important to our educational opportunities. Do you like to dig deeper when it comes to learning? Our challenging classes, invigorating projects and dedicated faculty mentors can take your learning to the next level.

Becton College Honors offer students the opportunity to pursue discipline-based honor studies in their major.

The University Honors Program offers gifted students a learning experience that extends far beyond traditional undergraduate studies through special courses, faculty mentors, independent study and research projects.

The Florham Scholars is a residential honors program for freshmen. Students live and study together as they explore their interests in one of these areas: arts and humanities, business, global studies or science.
Living on Campus
Nearly 1,500 students live in our 13 residence halls, where you’ll discover the joys of personal independence—and plenty of opportunities for social interaction, too.

Most first-year students live in the Twomblies, two side-by-side, traditional-style residence halls located near the Student Center. They’re just the right size for getting to know your classmates and meeting new friends. You’ll also participate in programs designed to introduce you to our campus and the region, like special lectures, trips to New York City, getaway ski weekends and more.

Our Academic Support Center also is located in the Twomblies. It’s the place to go—day or night—for free tutoring in your toughest subjects, foreign language labs, and help in time management and study skills. There’s even a computer lab, complete with printers and specialized software.

Housing for upperclassmen includes The Village (nine halls with suite-style accommodations), Rutherford Hall (double rooms and private bath) and Park Avenue (apartment-style living).

Planning to Commute?
While most students live on campus, our “road scholars” at the College at Florham are among our most involved student leaders. (And our comfortable commuter lounge is sure to be your second home.)

There are a variety of campus eateries, from full service to fast food, including:
Main Dining Hall — Choose from a variety of daily hot entrees or “create your own meal” with our wok, pasta, salad, deli and ice cream stations;
Nathan’s® — For hot dogs, fries and create-your-own sandwiches; and
