Finding the Leader in You 2019
Project Brief

Program Overview:
Finding the Leader in You is a joint venture across the Becton College of Arts and Sciences and the Dean of Students office. The goal of this initiative is to identify ways to improve and enhance the culture of the Florham campus while also recognizing that everyone on the Florham campus can be a leader in his or her own way.

This initiative will give all involved – students, faculty, and staff – the opportunity to work on a project team that not only can help to transform the campus, but that can also give team members the opportunity to better understand themselves: What kind of leader they are, and what kind of leader they hope to become.

Project Parameters:
Working in teams, submit a proposal for a project aimed at transforming the culture of the campus. The project may be an event or activity, or a systemic change geared toward improving relations or operations on campus. Proposed projects should aim to serve as many campus groups as possible (students, staff and faculty).

Proposals should include detailed answers to the following questions:
   a. What campus problem, issue, or need will be addressed by the proposed project?
   b. What research (primary or secondary) was used to develop the proposed project?
   c. Evaluate the feasibility of the project. What potential obstacles need to be considered?
   d. What is the proposed timeline for implementation of the project?
   e. How will project success be evaluated?

Team Composition:
Teams should be limited to no more than 8 (eight) individuals. Each team must include at least one faculty member, one staff member, and three students from the Florham campus.

Additional Guidelines:
Proposals should be double spaced and no more than 3-4 single-sided pages in length. In addition to submission of the written project proposal, teams must deliver an 8-10 minute oral presentation, describing the proposed project. Use of Powerpoint is encouraged.

Project Resources:
Project teams should plan for a total budget of $500 if their project wins approval. Teams may choose to pursue fund-raising as part of their proposal but funds attained through fund-raising should not exceed an additional $500.
